SOME RECIPES TO ATTAIN HAPPINESS

LONDON, Oct. 14.—John D. Rockefeller, at eighty, hasn't a corner on happiness, and he isn't the only present-day ancient who has discovered the recipe for perfect contentment.

Since John celebrated his birthday by telling how happy he was innumerable octogenarians have been expressing themselves here in England. They are by no means unanimous. Some of them have regrets, others have theories.

Some of the opinions follow:
Mrs. Despard, veteran suffragist—"A millionaire will assert that he is happy because he is giving away half of his fortune, but this happiness is not to be likened to one in less affluent circumstances who devotes his or her whole energies to the cause of the necessitous."
"It is not that you are happy, but the fact that you are making other people happy."

Happiness at 86.
Sir Charles Johnston, ex-lord mayor of London, "It is wrong to suppose that a man is at his happiest stage at eighty."

Should he have had a successful life and a feeling of contentment; but this is not to be compared with the happiness of a man of, say, thirty, who has his ambitions before him and is full of enthusiasm for the future.
"It is round about that age that the happiest man in the world will be found."

Miss Genevieve Ward, coterie actress—"I can quite imagine an American saying he is the happiest person in the world because the climate of that country is more conducive to happiness than ours."
"If good health and a bright outlook go to make a person happy, then I can certainly claim to be one of these care-free people."

Health Contributors.
Sir John James Baddley, city alderman—"I claim to be one of the happiest men in the world."

"It is not a question of age. No matter whether a man is old or young, providing only he is in good health and congenial with his surroundings, he has as much right to the title as anybody."
Sir George Elliott, M. P.—"A happy man is to be found in these days. I ought to be one, but with the work of political, municipal and public work, water boards, asylum boards, tribunals, demobilization and housing problems, it is impossible to be contented under the stress of present circumstances."

Sir Edward Cooper, Lord Mayor-Elect of London—"The happiest men in the world are to be found between the ages of thirty and forty. I admit I am perfectly happy, but there is just the edge taken off by not being able to indulge in such vigorous sports as I was wont to do in my younger days."

Good health, the ability to enjoy life, ambition, and that true helpmate, a wife, go towards making one among the happiest of men. But with old age comes the regretful feeling that one would like the old times over again.

A., were married today at noon, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's aunt, Miss Sarah Young, at 228 Q street. Owing to a bereavement in the family, the wedding was simple and only relatives and a few intimate friends were present.

The wedding was followed by an informal wedding breakfast.

The Rev. Father Edward L. Buckley, of St. Matthew's Church, officiated, and the bride was given in marriage by her father. She had no formal attendants, but Miss Elisabeth Koonen stood with her during the service and held her bouquet. Miss Koonen entered the drawing room with Major Nottley Young Duhamel, the bride's brother, and Major Paul Newgreen was his brother's best man.

Miss Duhamel wore a lovely gown of soft white satin simply made and embroidered in pearls. The skirt was cut short and the full train veiled the train. She carried a cluster of gardenias and lilies of the valley. Miss Koonen's frock was of peachblow georgette and she carried an armful of pink roses. The house was effectively decorated with pink roses, palms and ferns.

Major Newgreen is at present on duty here and on his return from their wedding trip he and his bride will make their home in Washington. Her going away gown is of midnight blue cloth trimmed with beaver, and with this she will wear a becoming blue velvet toque trimmed with a shaded plume of red and blue. Akin, of Atlanta, who was one of the first to go to France for the Red Cross. The bridegroom is Harold V. Amberg, of the United States Shipping Board, who was one of the board's representatives at the conference held in Paris after the armistice. It was while on that duty that he met Miss Akin, then engaged in Red Cross work.

After the wedding the couple will go on a short honeymoon trip and then make their home in New York, where Mr. Amberg will engage in the practice of law. It is expected that something that would check evaporation could be added.

If he found it he would be able to make the human body, or any part of it, as transparent as glass. The principle being not to force artificial light through a substance, but by means of the fluid make it pervious to natural light. Dr. Stean's labors eventually were crowned with success.

Writing about his discovery, he says: "The discovery of the X-rays and their action made it possible to examine the bones of living persons for study in medical science. But for the pathological laboratory and the study of dead body parts, the X-rays are not much use, because the finer details are either lost or made faint and uninteresting. The pathologist needed a preparation with which he could study from all sides and from every point of view."

"It was therefore my endeavor to find a means to study the body parts—the muscular system and the bone structure."

"I found it in my X-ray solution—a fluid which, like the X-rays, penetrates the outer skin and the flesh, but shows not only the bone structure but the finer muscular system."

The degree of transparency obtained by the action of the fluid can be regulated by the amount of fluid used. It is said a board can be made as clear as glass so that a newspaper may be read through it.

Mrs. David Porter had guests lunching with her at the Cafe St. Marks yesterday.

Senor Louis Corea, former minister of Nicaragua to this country, is at the Willard for a few days, accompanied by his son, Louis F. Corea.

URGENT REPEAL OF
'VACCINATION LAW'

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Oct. 14.—Aroused by the death of a schoolgirl by lockjaw, a movement is under way here to have the State compulsory vaccination law annulled.

The mayor has announced that he is against vaccination and has issued a permit for a public mass meeting at which the campaign for the repeal of the vaccination law will be launched. A former mayor has volunteered to pay the rental of the hall.

The mother of the little victim in a letter to the local newspaper states that she has received so many inquiries about the case that she has decided to place the facts before the public. She states that her daughter was perfectly healthy until the time she was vaccinated. "I feel," she says in conclusion, "that the parents of Pittsfield ought to rise and demand that the compulsory vaccination law of this State be done away with."

RUSSIAN SOCIETY
WOOL SEW SHIRTS

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Women once prominent in Petrograd society are working in London for $1.50 a day. But for the fact that they are making the most wonderful thing about it, the least and most useless collection of Russian aristocrats would be much worse.

"I have 200 women on my list," Lady Buchanan says. "Many of these workers came to England with only a penny and with only the clothes they were wearing. I had a refugee come to me recently who had a bundle of notes—100,000 roubles—but not a sixpence in the world. No bank would look at the notes."

In Lady Buchanan's "plant" the women make shirts and clothing of all kinds for shipment to Russia, one of the largest recently going to General Denikin's army.

SPIRITS APPROVE, SO
SIR OLIVER LODGE MOVES

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The "spooks" have approved, and Sir Oliver Lodge is about to move into his new house in Wiltshire.

Sir Oliver had all plans made to live in a certain house in Hampstead Garden, but a communication from the spirit world advised Lady Lodge that the family had better seek elsewhere for a home.

The spirits had no objection to the new house, and the landlord was pleased with the idea of having Sir Oliver for a tenant that he offered to buy on a large library in which the pioneer can continue his delving into the spirit world.

WEIRDE FLEWE BODY TRANSPARENT

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A new invention, more remarkable in many ways than the X-ray, has just been perfected by a French scientist, Dr. Jules H. Stean.

The new discovery which Dr. Stean calls the "X-ray fluid" is a liquid, the action of which reveals every detail in the structure of an organism on which it is brought to bear.

When an X-ray is turned on a living thing, or part of such, the bones only stand out in silhouette. When the same thing is submerged in this wonderful new fluid, veins, arteries, tissues, and the smallest details stand out clearly.

The perfection of the fluid required seven years of unremitting work. The manner in which the germs of the idea was born is as romantic as the story of Watt and his steam engine.

Sitting at work one day in his laboratory, Dr. Stean suddenly noticed a drop of oil falling upon a piece of paper beneath the paper transparent. He asked himself the question, if a drop of oil renders paper transparent might there not be some fluid which would render transparent substances and make them transparent.

He set himself the task of finding a liquid with a high index of refraction to which a preservative and natural light could be added.

If he found it he would be able to make the human body, or any part of it, as transparent as glass. The principle being not to force artificial light through a substance, but by means of the fluid make it pervious to natural light. Dr. Stean's labors eventually were crowned with success.

Writing about his discovery, he says: "The discovery of the X-rays and their action made it possible to examine the bones of living persons for study in medical science. WIFE REBELLED AGAINST
SHINING HUSBY'S BOOTS

AURORA, Ill., Oct. 14.—Deminick Desmond, mechanic, has some ideas as to what a wife is for.

He believes, according to his wife, that a woman's duty is to cook his meals, do his laundry and caring for two babies, his wife should shine his shoes.

"A man marries a woman to have her wait on him," says Dominick. But Mrs. Dominick rebelled. Mrs. Dominick was severely beaten. Dominick was arrested, however, and fined $15.
